Once upon a time, there was a boy whose name was Jack. He lived with his mother. The old woman got her living by spinning wool day and night, but Jack was lazy. So, the villagers called him Lazy Jack. His mother told him that he should begin to work for his breakfast.

Jack went out and worked for a farmer. The farmer gave him some money but he lost it while he was coming back home. "You boy," said his mother, "you should have put it in your pocket." "I will do so another time," replied Jack. The next day, Jack hired himself to a cow keeper, who gave him a jar of milk for his day's work. Jack put it into a large pocket of his jacket. When he got home, the milk was all spilled. "Dear me!" said the old woman; "you should carry it on your head". "I'll do so another time," said Jack.

The next day, he hired himself to a farmer, who gave him some cream cheese. Jack went home with cream cheese on his head. By the time he got home, the cheese was all spoilt.
